CLOSE PORTALS TO FOREIGNERS.

Few Immigrants Can Enter Until July.

Several Countries Have Now Exhausted Quota.

Cuba Colonization May be Made Futile.

(REUTERS DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Until July 1, when new quotas will be permissible under the 2 per cent immigration restriction, few immigrants from Southern and Eastern Europe will be admitted to the United States, according to Commissioner-General Husband of the Immigration Bureau. Quotas of many countries have been exhausted. The flow from Southern and Eastern Europe, which for thirty years supplied from 80 to 95 per cent of the immigration, has been stopped.

FEW GERMAN COME.

Northern and Western Europe may continue to send immigrants, but not in the numbers that were received before the restrictive law was enacted. The flow from Germany has been stopped. The quota of 15,284 Germans had been reached. The cost of transportation, which is at least $100, is believed to be the cause of the slight German movement.

The Commissioner-General doubts that the 355,815 aliens entitled to enter the United States in the year to end June 30 will arrive. Only 185,608 have been received since the quotas were established. The total will not exceed 375,000 in the four months of the fiscal year yet to run, he believes. In 1921 a record of 1,245,335 was reached. During the war, immigration decreased to 110,618 in 1918 and to 141,123 in 1919.

NO MORE MAY ENTER.

Italy has now joined the countries whose quotas for the fiscal year have been exhausted. The list of countries that can send no more immigrants includes African Atlantic Islands, Australia, Bulgaria, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Korea, Palestine, Poland, Portugal, New Zealand, Spain, Syria, Turkey and Smyrna district. Austria may send 4665, Denmark 2541, and France 2318. Germany may send 18,776. The United Kingdom has sent only 27,721 of her quota of 77,288. Other remaining quotas are as follows: Finland, 1988; Netherlands, 1994; Norway, 1994; Sweden, 14,466; Switzerland, 1183; and Russia, including Siberia, 17,357.

DESIRABLE CLASS.

Commissioner-General Husband believes the immigrants to be received during the remainder of the fiscal year will be of a more desirable class than those received thus far under the restrictive law. Immigrants from Northern and Western Europe, he says, are home-bred, intelligent, and their families and communities remain in America. He has given the Immigration Committee of the House information purporting to show that 4000 or 5000 Europeans are colonized in Cuba awaiting the chance to enter the United States. The law permits an alien to enter after one year's residence in Cuba. The Senate committee closed the gap by requesting two years' residence. The committee will meet Friday to consider such an amendment to the law before passing the House resolution to continue the restrictive act for one year.

PARIS NEWSPAPER BARRED FROM MAIL.

LA VIE PARISIENNE IS KEPT OUT OF PERUSAL BY CHICAGO.

(REUTERS DISPATCH.)

CHICAGO, March 9.—La Vie Parisienne, a gay Parisian newspaper, will not be for Chicago, and has been consigned to the darkest dungeon available. The paper, which has been denied transit in the mails of Uncle Sam, was about ready for distribution in Chicago. Collector of Customs North J. M. J. discovered that several thousand copies were in a local freight yard ready to be unloaded. Mr. J. M. J. with several aides, invaded the yards and seized the papers. He took a peep at the relish with which the paper was being read and declared it unfit for Chicago. "That is supposed to be art," he declared, "but it is not art. It might have been all right for the soldiers in France, but it certainly isn't fit for circulation here."

A decision authorizes the Register and Receiver of the Los Angeles Land Office to issue their final certificate to Clarence Smith of his homestead entry of 80 acres near Elsinore.

Union Oil Company Faces Crisis; Time Limit Fixed for Holding Corporation.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

The affairs of the Union Oil Company of California, the Union Oil Company of Delaware, the Royal Dutch Shell Company and the Shell Union Company have been frequently exploited during the past few months. There has been propaganda and anti-propaganda, considerable publicity and an occasional bit of information. There has been a great deal of confusion and not a little theoretical reasoning advanced during the intricate moves which have taken place on the economic chessboard, the stakes of which have been the control of a great business built up by California capital and managed by California men, and having a yearly turnover in excess of $4,000,000.

There is no use in denying the fact that it is a condition rather than a theory which now confronts the stockholders of the Union Oil Company of California. The issue appears to have been more or less definitely joined, and the question is upon the retention of control, where it obviously belongs, in the hands of the stockholders, or in the hands of the company, whose money and far-sightedness have been responsible for the erection of a great business structure.

To meet this issue the Union Oil Associates, Inc., has been projected. This is a holding company organized for the purpose of pooling a sufficient volume of stock to insure control. This company is bound to have a majority of such stock if its operations are to be free and unhampered.

It is pointed out by officials of the company that such a holding organization is merely an insurance to the stockholders that the interests behind the Union Oil, which are said to include the Perry Rockefeller group, will not be able to go into the open market, and bid the price of Union stock up to such a point that control will ultimately become invested in other hands. In such an event, it is pointed out, it is the investor who is caught beneath the upper and the lower stones which are being thrown at him. The term usually applied.

It is easy to see how the splendid property of California Union might be exploited if such a reversal of control came into being. With foreign interests at the helm, the California pride of possession would be gone; the company might become completely subsidiary and an institution which has come to stand for much in the development of big business in the Pacific Coast, might, in the course of transforming events, lose its identity, and become a mere unit in a great impersonal, transcontinental, international machine. This, of course, is admittedly an hypothetical possibility, but, held in the mind of the stockholder, the successful segregation of a majority of the stock in a pool will effectively block such a contingency should it ever arise, and would make necessary open negotiations.

TIME IS SHORT.

Members of the directorate have said that the holding company is in receipt of a safe working majority of the stock by the time the books are closed, the organization would not be consummated, and, it is pointed out, that the time for taking advantage of the opportunity is now reduced to ten days. Mr. Milbank said yesterday that about 40 per cent of the stock has so far been turned in.

W. L. Stewart, president of the Union Oil Company of California, said yesterday that in his mind the whole matter is elementary in its simplicity. More than 60 per cent of the stock of the company is held in Southern California, and the chief executive believes that if the stockholders who have not yet pooled their interests fully understood the situation, there would be no question about securing a safe working majority for the holding company. "The interests behind the fight for control are very powerful," said another official, "and they must be combated by powerful means. The question is not now one of individuals. It is not whether this man or that man is best fitted for the position he holds. Rather the question is a broad one of concentrated control: of whether or not this great California corporation may be absorbed by alien interests or permitted to go on working out its own destiny. If the former, then let the stockholder look well to his interests, for it may be every minute for himself and the devil take the hindmost. If the latter, no time should be lost in affiliating with the holding company and making certain that the home office of Union Oil will continue to be in Los Angeles."

Because of the widespread interest in the affairs of Union Oil in Southern California, and because the stock of the corporation is held in such well-distributed volume, Trade Talk has attempted to present the exigencies of the present crisis as it is viewed by interested friends to the home company. There is no camouflage about the proposition. If a majority of the stock is convinced that the best interests of the company lie in the protection offered through the holding company, they must act, and act at once.

NEW DEAL CHARGED.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Union Oil Company held in February, E. P. Powers of Denver, expressed his disapproval of the holding company. The next day Mr. Powers changed his front and announced that he was heartily in favor of the pool. In San Francisco yesterday he made known the existence of his reversal and thereby brought to light a new development in the fight for control.

He told a financial writer in that city, according to advice from the north, that since making his attack on the holding corporation idea he had become convinced of the existence of a collateral trust agreement between Henry Lockhart, acting director of the Union Oil of Delaware, and H. Collins, managing director of the Royal Dutch Petroleum interests in London, providing for the acquisition of a controlling interest in the Union Oil Company of California by the latter setting through the agency of the Union Oil of Delaware.

Powers is reported to have said further that this collateral agree-

RELIEVES MARKET STRAIN.

Genoa Decision and Steel Price Advance Have Effect in Financial Circles.

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOTER.

NEW YORK, March 13.—There were three announcements in the overnight news which might have affected the financial markets, especially as some of them had been taken for granted beforehand. One was the State Department's refusal to participate in the Genoa conference; another was the news that four other large independent steel-producing companies had followed Tuesday's advance in steel prices by Jones & Laughlin; the third was Secretary Mellon's announcement of a four-year treasury note issue, to which subscriptions would be received only in the outstanding Victory 4½s due to mature next year.

TO RELIEVE STRAIN.

This last mentioned announcement is part of what seems to be a very carefully thought-out series of expedients for relieving the strain, which would otherwise attend the redemption at par on May 20, 1925, of $3,000,000,000 of those bonds. It follows the offer at the end of January, for similar subscription, in both 4-4s and 4-4s Victory Bonds, of a three-year note issue of the kind; also the subsequent calling for redemption of the Treasury's optional date, the 15th of next June, of the half billion 3-4s per cent, outstanding. Supplemented by yesterday's steel advance, the arrangement means that the tax exempt Victory notes would be extinguished in advance of next year's maturity, while the due date of a good part of the 4-4s will be deferred two or three years longer. The plan is ingenious and simple; it promises to achieve its purpose. Today's announcement, being equivalent to a three-year extension of the 4-4s per cent at the option of the holder, resulted in an immediate advance of their price from 100 1-8 to a trifle over 100 3-4.

ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

Our government's action in regard to the economic conference might perhaps have been expected to affect foreign exchange adversely; but it was not apparent that it did so. Starting west for a time to $4.15 7-8, nearly 3 cents under Wednesday's close, and the lowest since the middle of last month; but it recovered all the loss before the close, and so did the other European exchange.

On the stock exchange no interest seemed to be taken in the action of the independent steel mills. Shares of steel companies hardly moved, though the general tendency elsewhere was plainly upward. Nevertheless, it remains to be seen what actual trend in the trade will be disclosed by this moderate stiffening of prices. There was little other news.

The reserve system's weekly statement was negative in character, except for the $40,000,000 further reduction in rediscounts, to reach the lowest of the period. They have fallen $648,000,000, or 44 per cent since 1921, and $1,787,000,000, or 73 per cent from a year ago.

A Good Investment
In a Growing Utility

WHERE would you rather invest your money? In a business losing ground, in a business standing still, or in a business showing regular and consistent gains, year after year?

The business of a public utility is, in its very nature, a stable business, because it serves necessities to a community. In this State the stability of these Companies is strengthened by the supervision of the California Railroad Commission.

But the Railroad Commission does not have the power to increase the Company's business year after year. The steady and consistent gains made by any utility are dependent on the increasing demand for the products of that utility, based on the progression of the community served and its gain in population.

The Western States Gas & Electric Company, a public utility corporation, has an record of gain in its business, and in consumption of gas and electricity.

These Bonds, in opinion of counsel, will be a first mortgage on the new hydro-electric plant at Eureka, with appurtenances thereto, and a first mortgage on the combined properties of the Company subject only to underlying closed mortgage loans.

EARNINGS—

Gross earnings have steadily increased since incorporation of the Company. Net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1921, were in excess of twice the interest charges and have averaged a like ratio for the year period.

SINKING FUND—

Operation of a sinking fund commencing March 1, 1922, provides that all cash payments to the extent of 2% of all outstanding bonds will be paid toward the retirement of senior bonds. This maturity time will be a first mortgage on the properties.

We are offering a limited amount of these Bonds, due 1947, in denominations of $500 and $1000.00. Ask for more detailed information.

Elizabeth Jordan's Column.

SICK-ROOM FINANCES.

In these days, when everybody is having the flu, the gloom of the experience is intensified by the discovery that sickness, like our other luxuries, is prohibitive in cost.

It is only a few years ago that our best general practitioners in the big cities came to us for $5 a visit. Now they charge us $10. The trained nurse of those days worked for $25 a week and, as a rule, was willing to be on twenty-four-hour duty. That is, she was on call day and night, though, of course, the family of the patient was supposed to see that she had sufficient sleep and hours off for fresh air and exercise. Now the trained nurse receives from $42 to $49 a week and accepts only a twelve-hour service.

THOSE LEAVING COSTS.

Twelve hours in the sick room are enough, heaven knows, especially when the patient is seriously ill; but the new ruling makes illness very expensive for the patient without much money, yet with an illness such as pneumonia, so critical that expert care is necessary twenty-four hours a day, the general practitioner, thinking only of his patient's care and comfort, says, casually: "Better get a night nurse, too—for a while, anyhow."

If he himself calls once a day the city patient with two nurses and a doctor starts in with an initial expense of $150 a week.

But that is by no means all the expense. In those dear old days that still seem so near, the general medical man took full charge of the case, only calling in outside assistance in very rare instances. Now, he seems obsessed by the need of specialists. He calls in a specialist to make a blood test. He calls in a surgeon to look for possible complications. The various analyses he once made as a matter of course, he passes on to other specialists. And it all mounts up on the bills!

THOSE SICK-ROOM SUPPLIES.

Medicines, too, have at least doubled in cost. So have sick-room supplies of all kinds, and it's an empty hour, indeed, in which the average frugal nurse is not asking for some new or additional "supply." If the patient begins to think of the financial end of her illness she is lost, or at least her peace of mind is lost. She may as well continue her reflections to the bitter end and realize that death is even more expensive than illness. Like everybody else, the undertakers have doubled their bills for service and supplies. Even yet, it is much cheaper to get well, if one can do it with skill.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Should Pay a Fair. LOS ANGELES, March 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I see by today's Times that the Board of Education has decided to cut a bond issue for $117,000,000 for new buildings, etc.

It is perfectly true that we need these new buildings. The high schools don't begin to find room for the new scholars. There ought to be new buildings, nobody denies that; but why don't we make the strangers who come to spend the why anyone should justify a bonus, not that some of us do not need the money, but what excuse can they offer for giving it? It is a well-known fact that a man in the Army or Navy, though only paid at the rate of a $1 a day, is the best paid man in the country, so why give him more? That statement will no doubt bring out a loud howl, but it is nevertheless a fact of which there is undoubted proof of which any man in the service for any length of time will readily admit, and some of those who served only for a short period will grudgingly do so. He is however the only class of man in the country who, at the end of each month, can throw away his total cash resources and still know that he will have all that he wants or is needed; there is absolutely no other class of man who is working, regardless of the rate of pay he may receive, who can do the same thing. This is just one reason why he is the best paid man in the country; there are others, but space is valuable and perhaps I'd better be short.

In the office in which I am employed at present there are some twenty-five service men, none of whom are in favor of the passage of the bonus bill, and none but who will accept the bonus if it is passed, not because they favor it, but because they look upon it as a check in the office; they are not getting anything for nothing. I've got some 150 or more ex-service men and all have about the same attitude in such a way as to get their honest opinion of the bill, and not a question of whether they will take it or not if it is passed. I really believe there will be a surprising total if such a question is properly put and honestly answered.

H. C. GARDEN.

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] An article addressed to "Senators of the United States" by Mr. Hearst and published extensively in his papers under the caption "Senators Are Urged to Study People's Will on Treaties," prompts the writing of this letter.

Reading Mr. Hearst's heading one gets a wrong conception of the article. It occasions no surprise, however, that Mr. Hearst was never known to be impartial on any subject.

The article starts out in somewhat the spirit that the title suggests, but changes by gradual stages until it winds up, if not with an actual threat, at least with a very unmistakable admonition to beware of doing, not the wrong thing, but a certain thing.

Mr. Hearst's advice to the Senators, presumably, is to consult the wishes of the majority, in their treatment of the disarmament issue, in fact, his article is a threat of political decapitation. If the treaty is ratified, one

My idea of the official status of a Senator is that he represents, by choice, a certain number of constituents in the affairs of government, in very much the same spirit that directors are chosen to represent stockholders in a corporation, for instance.

The duty of a director is to successfully administer the affairs of a business, and his tenure of office would no doubt be brief if such administration was not successful. Upon him devolves the proper handling of weighty matters, for it is for this he holds his position, through the confidence and trust of the stockholders. He is in intimate touch with the affairs of the business and has a thorough understanding of all its conditions. The ordinary stockholder is no more qualified to give an opinion in the affairs of business than is the ordinary voter in the affairs of government.

If it would appear foolish for a director to go to each stockholder for his opinion as to the advisability of a merger with another concern, and be guided by the haphazard opinion of the majority, how much more foolish for the Senate to be guided by the uninformed and incompetent opinion of seventy-five out of 100 voters, as to the advisability of taking a step which time alone can prove the wisdom of. And this, in order, as Mr. Hearst points out, that they may be returned to office for another term.

If Senator Lodge or Senator Johnson were to ask my opinion as to the advisability of ratifying or rejecting this treaty, and I made my answer truthfully, irrespective of party affiliations, it would be, and I consider myself a voter of average intelligence, "I am not qualified to advise you, one way or the other."

Question: Does the Constitution provide for the forming of a Cabinet? F. L. B.

Answer: The Constitution of the United States does not provide for the creation of executive departments, vesting the sole executive power in the President. These departments were created by successive acts of Congress, under authority conferred by the Constitution in Article I, Section 8, Paragraph 14. The President, then called Foreign Affairs, Treasury and War were established by the first session of the First Congress. The Secretary of State, then called Secretary of State, was then a part of the judicial establishment, formed the first President's Cabinet.

Q: Are coal mines warmer in winter and colder in summer? E. J.

A: The Bureau of Mines says that coal mines are not warmer in winter and colder in summer. The heat of the earth increases one degree for every 100 feet of depth. Coal mines are not usually very deep and therefore not affected to any great extent by the heat of the earth. The temperature of the mine depends upon the location and the depth.

Q: What is a moratorium? J. P.

A: A moratorium is a period during which the obligor has a legal right to delay meeting an obligation.

Q: Is it true that the royal family of Great Britain rises at 7 o'clock? C. E. T.

A: According to various reports, it is a general custom for the royal family in England to rise at 7 o'clock in the morning.

Q: What is a man-mile? W. B. B.

A: Man-mile is an aeronautical term. By man-mile is meant the number of miles flown by each man in any one plane. For instance, a plane carrying two people to a station fifty miles distant and return, will carry 200 man-miles of cross-country flight.

Q: What states do not recognize teacher's certificates granted in other States? W. B. B.

A: Colorado, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Louisiana.

DEATH THREAT TOLD AT TRIAL.

Surprise Witness Called in Murder Hearing.

Former Employee of Slain Man is on Stand.

Accused Slayer of Baines Score Strong Point.

A surprise witness was introduced yesterday in Superior Court at the trial of J. M. Baines, charged with the murder of Samuel P. Baines, formerly a policeman in Los Angeles, who was shot and killed by Mr. Baines, Mr. Mitchell, who was employed by Mr. Baines as a private watchman.

The witness, represented by Attorney Merrett, sought to show that Mr. Mitchell's testimony that Mr. Baines had made threats against the life of the slain man was a strong point.

Mr. Baines told me, the witness declared, "that he was going to shoot me in the back of the head in the district; if he did not, there would be a shooting."

WAS PISTOL EXPERT.

Mr. Baines was previously testified to be an expert in the use of the revolver. The prosecution, represented by Dep. Dist. Atty. J. M. Baines, contended that the slaying of Mr. Baines was deliberate. He was a front of the residence of the slain man, 1350 Hawthorne, on the night of the slaying.

Mr. Baines showed him he had written, referring to the name of Jones, that he was what I thought of. I told him I did not think much of it. He replied: "I'll teach you to mind your own business!"

WAS HOUSE WATCHED.

Mr. Baines further testified that he had been watching the house of the slain man, Mr. Baines, at the time of the slaying. He said that he had been watching the house of the slain man, Mr. Baines, at the time of the slaying.

Mr. Baines said he expected Mr. Baines to come to the house and that he would get him in bad and that he would drive that car. He said that he would kill him like a dog.

Expect to Save City Huge Sum on Power Bills.

Anticipated with the taking over of the city of the electrical system of the Southern California Edison Company, Chief Engineer E. F. Beatter, is vigorously pushing completion of the new San Fernando power plant.

The San Fernando plant will return a gross revenue of about $1,000,000 a year, based on average rates of about 100 kilowatt hours per year.

Beatter expects to realize a net of $1,000,000 a year, or $250,000 by generating and distributing this power. The cost of purchasing this power is estimated at $1,000,000.

The plant will be made up of this way: The city will purchase from the Edison Company at 1.5 cents per kilowatt hour, and the annual maintenance and annual cost of the plant will be about $70,000 a year; the annual maintenance cost of the plant will be about $11,000, making a net of $1,000,000. The amount paid to the city for the plant will be about $1,000,000, making a net of $1,000,000.

The city will be able to produce its own power, and will be able to save a huge sum on power bills.

That real down-East maple taste

Enjoy it again in LOG CABIN Syrup

YOU don't have to be a New Englander to long for the taste of real maple sugar. But perhaps the excitement of working in the sugar bush was part of your own childhood. Then you remember the thrill when the first sap was being boiled down in the big open kettle and you spread some of the golden syrup to cool on the snow! Has any candy ever tasted quite so good as that first chewy mouthful?

But even in those days not all the maple syrup was as delicate in flavor as that from first-run sap. Toward the end of the season it was often strong and bitter.

And now, have you not found it hard to get maple syrup of anything like uniform goodness — no matter how much you pay?

Then you will enjoy Log Cabin Syrup. Here is a table syrup with the most delightful maple flavor. And Log Cabin never varies in quality. A blend of sugars — nothing else For Log Cabin Syrup is made from the choicest of New England maple combined with the best from Canadian groves — the real sugars of maple in which the flavor is most intense. This is blended with just enough pure sugar of cane — and nothing else — to give Log Cabin Syrup the most delicate, most mellow maple flavor.

Log Cabin makes pancakes and waffles, French toast and fried mush just twice as good. And it's splendid for all sorts of simple desserts, for luscious cake frostings, and for candies. Get a can of Log Cabin at your grocer's today — for the real down-East maple taste! It comes in three convenient sizes. The Log Cabin Products Company, St. Paul, Minnesota.

CLAIMS PRO COLLEGE DEMORALIZES

Declares College Sports Game His Career Being a Shift

(EXCLUSIVE DISCUSSION)

NEW YORK, March 8.—Professionalizing of sports, just as much the best, according to Tom Thorpe, University of California. Thorpe, widely known as the greatest college football player in the history of the country, is ranked at Columbia he was ranked as the best football from all angles."

Thorpe, "and it is my judgment that professional football will be widely popular in America because college football has a multitude of followers."

Thorpe, "and it is my judgment that professional football does deserve to be popular. What is the reason for that opinion? Well, I played a dark game in my past career and I think it is a good thing for a short time. I played a long time ago, just after I was graduated, and I think it is due to myself to say that I only saw the error of my way and returned."

ONE YEAR SUFFICES

Thorpe, "the reason for professional football was enough for me. What else, and what I have seen has strengthened that opinion. I think that professional football is the most demoralizing thing that has happened to sports from the standpoint of sports themselves. To use a expression, professional football tends to make a bum of a player."

Thorpe, "the reason is plain enough. A player who has made a reputation in school as a star here and is induced to professional football has a hard time of it, at best, two months, and then he is out of the game."

Thorpe, "I think it is a good thing for a short time. I played a long time ago, just after I was graduated, and I think it is due to myself to say that I only saw the error of my way and returned."

Mrs. Roberts plans to leave tonight for San Francisco to visit her other daughter, Mrs. Walter Kamm and in April will sail again for Europe to join the one abroad. ## IS BABY SHOWING A STEADY GAIN?

If not try Certified Milk from Holstein Cows. It has an equal chance for health and strength with that enjoyed by the breast-fed baby.

You can do this by feeding Certified Milk from Holstein Cows. The milk from the Holstein cow is most nearly like human milk in structure, in quality and percentage of fat, and in nature of curds formed.

Unlike other milk from Guernsey or Jersey Cows, Certified Milk contains the fat in the form of small even globules, which produce tender, flaky and digestible curds, easily taken care of by the digestive juices.

In other milks the curds are coarse, heavy and stringy and produce a serious obstacle to the delicate stomach of baby. The use of these heavier latter milks usually causes indigestion. Most of the best and most celebrated physicians and dietitians throughout the world recommend the use of Certified Holstein Milk, not only for infant feeding, but for growing children, invalids, convalescents and the whole family.

Arden Certified is the only milk produced in Southern California which will meet the very rigid requirements of your baby's delicate digestive system. Corroborate these statements by consulting your physician.

ENTRIES OPEN WEEK.

Closing Date for Children's Exposition Extended.

The closing date for entries in the Children's Exposition, originally set for today, has been extended until a week from today. It was announced yesterday by Robert E. Wells, director-general of the exposition. This extension was granted because many students have been kept out of school by illness. Mr. Wells also announced that 20,000 exhibitors' buttons are ready to be distributed to children in the elementary grades and students in the high schools who enter exhibits. All participants also will be given season passes for the exposition, which will run nine days, from April 8 to 16, inclusive.

THE LAST WORD.
BY ALMA WHITAKER

Mitscha Elman, the young musician, announced that he was ready to receive applications from superior English girls for the honor of becoming his wife. Wednesday this week was the fatal date upon which he expected to make his final selection at the Queens Hall in London.

Mitscha says he greatly prefers English girls; they are so natural. He never could lose his heart to an artificial American woman.

One recalls that when Mitscha was visiting here a great many American women, and one hostess in particular, did their best to make Mitscha the prize he obviously was. They flattered him until he wasn't at all sure whether he stood on his feet or his heels at their villa on a little island in Lake Maggiore.

When they were here the Princess used to wear her own lawn with a leaky hose on Hollywood Boulevard and wash out her own silk undies—very imperfectly. They also kept her house, Japanese servant, and relays of non-paying guests. The Princess was a most comfortably casual person who declined to allow the artifices of genius to disturb her. When a guest was too sleepy to go home she pushed him onto a sofa and threw an overcoat over him. And made him wear the lawn next morning, with the leaky hose, in his evening dress clothes. If she didn't like the Prince's parties, she went to bed. A fitting wife for a genius.

It is just as well that it is a company of men who are entertaining with a banquet for a departed friend, who they insist, will be present in astral form and converse with them.

No woman's club could live that down.

I see one of our famous women's magazines has a weighty article on advice to engaged girls. Mustn't be jealous. Mustn't make him give up smoking or golf. Mustn't let him give her expensive presents. Mustn't monopolize his leisure hours. Mustn't flirt and hurt his feelings. And so on. Pages of it.

Why? Oh, because things of this kind are "apt to cool, if not extinguish entirely, the flickle flame of love in a young man's heart."

Oh, be gentle with those dear delicate flickle little flames. Fan them carefully, feed them, coax them, pet them—and then one day, if you are a very good girl and make no mistakes, you may have the supreme joy of reaping your life's warmth and sunshine from that flickle little flicker. Lucky, lucky girl! All the same I would like to see you, Emyrtrude, if I were you, Emyrtrude. It might prove warmer in the end.

Ernest J. Lloyd was a stickler for his rights and believed that he was not treated right at home, his wife says. He told his wife, Catharine C. Lloyd, she says, that he was going to leave and would not be back. He followed this declaration by writing a letter, in which he said:

"I am human and have certain rights, and as long as I live I intend to have those rights. I don't intend to live where I have to continually fight for them. I am sorry that things are the way they are between us, but you seem determined to see how far you can drive me by doing the things that I ask you not to do, so you will have to take the results."

This letter won Mrs. Lloyd a divorce until Judge Sumnerfield's court yesterday. She declared she had stood loyally by her husband. Her stepdaughter remained with Mrs. Lloyd after her husband left and was a corroborating witness.

HOLD FASHION REVIEW.

Spectators Crowd Vogue for Showing of Styles.

The fashion review at the Vogue yesterday held the attention for two hours of a crowd of spectators. There was a continuous procession of mannequins. The pageant was held in the elegant ballroom of the Hotel Green, which was decorated in soft pastel colors to represent the hour of rising, and then came the costumes of the hour—sporting frocks, the latter were in capes and knickerbockers. Judging from the comments among the audience sports costumes, particularly sweaters and slacks, may be the coming costume for both street and sport wear. The afternoon frocks and gowns had Paris earmarks with long skirts and elaborate effects. The latter were direct importations. An especially striking effect was derived from two hand-made gowns on two young women who held baskets of roses. One was orchid tinted and the other blue, white and flame and black predominated in the evening and dinner gowns and beads predominated in the trimming.

HARDING PLANS TRIP.

President May Visit Southland on Way to Alaska.

President Harding will visit the Southland if he makes his proposed Alaskan trip, he says in a letter received yesterday by Dick Foye Harding of Santa Ana. He writes in part:

"I very much wish to go to Alaska this summer, because I am deeply concerned with the adoption of the correct policy for the development of that vast territory. Of course, such a trip would be attended by a visit to Coast cities and I would quite naturally include Santa Ana, because I have a sister residing there."

JUDGE WOOD TO ACE.

Judge Wood has been designated by Gov. Stephens to try the water suit in the San Diego courts establishing the rights of the city of San Diego to use the waters of the San Diego River under the ancient Pueblo right incorporated in the Mexican law. The San Diego judges are disqualified. The suit will require several weeks of court time.

them, please return the maid, my dress and hat to 40 S. M.—Street. Many thanks."

A situation that never loses its charm for the mistress. Wonder whether Mrs. Sukey Anderson, former president of the Matinee Musical Club, is still reeling from the gift from the club? When she retired they gave her a handsome vanity bag, purchased from a local jeweler in a spirit of enthusiasm by a member who omitted to take up the necessary collection first. The last we heard the bills were still going to Mrs. Anderson on the first of each month.

Prince and Princess Paul Troubatzky are back at their villa on a little island in Lake Maggiore.

When they were here the Princess used to wear her own lawn with a leaky hose on Hollywood Boulevard and wash out her own silk undies—very imperfectly. They also kept her house, Japanese servant, and relays of non-paying guests. The Princess was a most comfortably casual person who declined to allow the artifices of genius to disturb her. When a guest was too sleepy to go home she pushed him onto a sofa and threw an overcoat over him. And made him wear the lawn next morning, with the leaky hose, in his evening dress clothes. If she didn't like the Prince's parties, she went to bed. A fitting wife for a genius.

It is just as well that it is a company of men who are entertaining with a banquet for a departed friend, who they insist, will be present in astral form and converse with them.

No woman's club could live that down.

I see one of our famous women's magazines has a weighty article on advice to engaged girls. Mustn't be jealous. Mustn't make him give up smoking or golf. Mustn't let him give her expensive presents. Mustn't monopolize his leisure hours. Mustn't flirt and hurt his feelings. And so on. Pages of it.

Why? Oh, because things of this kind are "apt to cool, if not extinguish entirely, the flickle flame of love in a young man's heart."

Oh, be gentle with those dear delicate flickle little flames. Fan them carefully, feed them, coax them, pet them—and then one day, if you are a very good girl and make no mistakes, you may have the supreme joy of reaping your life's warmth and sunshine from that flickle little flicker. Lucky, lucky girl! All the same I would like to see you, Emyrtrude, if I were you, Emyrtrude. It might prove warmer in the end.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 124—String Through Handkerchief.

Two cords are held together, and a handkerchief is tied about them at the center. The ends of the cords are held by different persons, and at the command to pull the cords are drawn right through the handkerchief.

A loop of thread was previously tied about the cords at the center, but its presence was kept secret. Just before tying the handkerchief, the cords were arranged as illustrated, so, instead of two cords passing through the knot, as supposed, each cord comes into the knot and returns. When all four persons pull, the loop of thread is broken and the handkerchief drops from the cords.

Bubble Ball.

This game may be played as indoor tennis, but with a ribbon instead of a net stretched across the room. The players form sides, say, the Pinks and the Blues. Soapbubbles, made with naphtha soap, are placed in a large bowl. (The addition of two spoonfuls of glycerin adds to the beauty and durability of the bubbles.) Each player is provided with a clay pipe, which he or she marks with initials in pencil for identification.

The girls and boys take turns in making the bubbles and in blowing them across the ribbon. The girls usually make the bubbles on the first round and hand the pipes to the boys who are to be their partners. Each does his best to blow the first bubble over the ribbon, but his opponents on the other side must try to blow it back again before it collapses. Every bubble blown over the ribbon counts breaks on the other side counts ten points for the side sending it. In addition, five points are awarded for the largest bubble blown, and five points for the one living the longest.

Tally is made for sides at the end of each round. Game is fifty points. In bubble ball sometimes the girls prefer to occupy themselves with the making of the bubbles and let the boys or men blow the bubbles. This is a very sudden and a thimbleful of suds as they burst. Although the game may appear childish, many adults delight in this merry pastime for a winter evening indoors. A divisible prize, such as a large box of candy, may be awarded to the side attaining the highest total score.
